MonWHO 2011 Theme

"Child & Maternal Health"

Delegates will be asked to reflect on the topics of reproductive health, child development, the economy and the family, and foreign policy.

How can we effectively support women in gaining control over their reproductive health? What impact does maternal health have on child development? How can women and children impact a developing country's economy?

Dr. Nicolas Steinmetz, MD

Our keynote speaker is a retired associate professor of pediatrics at McGill University and past associate executive director of the McGill University Health Centre.

He is recognized for his lifetime dedication the care of children and his impact on the future of health care in Quebec. Throughout his career, he has been involved in numerous community projects such as developing pediatric services in Pointe-St-Charles, Little Burgundy. Kahnawake, Baffin Island , Northern Quebec and Kenya.
